Questions 29 – 34 are based on the following diary entry.

Dear Diary,

I was delighted that I could help Gilbert's football team get to the district finals by supplying the substitute bus. As I drove my bus, I could hear Duncan, one of Gilbert's teammates giving him a hard time. It took all my self-control not to lose my temper.

I watched Gilbert's uncertainty when we arrived at the field. I could see that he thought he wouldn't get to play. And I knew he would be bitterly disappointed. My stomach was in a tight knot; I really felt for my boy. Then, the next thing I knew, he had found out that he would be playing.

My heart pounded whenever the ball came anywhere near Gilbert throughout the game. When the score was still a draw near the end of the game, the suspense was dreadful. My mouth was dry and my palms were cold. Would the team blame Gilbert if they didn't win? The match outcome was in Gilbert's hands or actually as it turned out, his head.

It was absolutely unbelievable the way he effortlessly put that ball into the net so the other team's goalkeeper couldn't reach it – he did it without even looking!

Everyone went wild. I was so proud! I had to blink repeatedly to stop the tears of relief and joy that I could feel pricking the back of my eyelids as I whispered, "That's my boy, Gilbert. That's my boy!"

Questions 35 – 37 are based on the following poem.

The Lake Isle of Innisfree

I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree
And a small cabin build there, of clay and wattles made.
Nine bean-rows, will I have there, a hive for the honey bee
And live alone in the bee-loud glade.

And I shall have some peace there, for peace comes dropping slow,
Dropping from the veils of the morning to where the cricket sings,
There midnight's all a glimmer, and noon a purple glow
And evening full of the linnet's wings.

I will arise and go now, for always night and day
I hear lake water lapping with low sounds by the shore
While I stand on the roadway, or on the pavement grey,
I hear it in the deep heart's core.

Questions 38 – 40 are based on the extract from the short story 'Of Bunga Telur and Bally Shoes.

He considered everything. He considered selling his mother's guavas in the garden. He considered borrowing money from his youngest sister as she was the kindest. Finally, Jamal considered his mother. He mustered all his courage and went up to his mother to ask to be considered for a small loan. As expected his mother gave him a lecture on thrift and the virtues of saving. Jamal listened meekly. The lecture was not important. What was important was the outcome. At the end of her thirty-minute lecture, his mother agreed to give him RM1 500.

"And that is not even my money. It's from the sale of the guavas," his mother said tartly.

Jamal didn't care even if it was the sale of chillies, he was over the moon. He yelped and hugged his mother. He kissed his mother and promised to be an "Anak Mithali". His mother snorted.

Examinations have become part and parcel of every student's life. Sometimes you find that your motivation to study is slipping away. That is why some people prefer to study in groups which is more of a means to hang out with friends while getting some information about their studies.

How can you make the most of your study group? Select people who share the same motivation to study will make studying more interesting. You will also feel that your group members are a source of encouragement. Students have different styles of studying; some are effective and some are not. Do not forget to share information with your group members.

Studying is never solid without written notes. You can compare your notes with those of the other group members. So, make sure you jot down important points while you study. Besides, explaining concepts to the other group members will help you understand them better. Let's face it - studying can sometimes be boring.
